running as fast as I can with the blue sky hanging over my head it's the first day of summer and there's nothing holding me back
I've been waiting too long no turning back, this chance comes only but once in a lifetime

how far will you go?

running on empty, lights flashing, red alert no chance in slowing down in time that you'll get hurt so take this chance, relax and unwind with hope on your side just keep telling yourself that "things could be worse tonight"

and I know that someday I'll be everything I wanna be and I know that someday I'll be everything to you

I don't believe in running just take this time and reach for the sky this is your chance in life there's no turning back from here
