everything I've said to you whether you were wasted still...you should've heard them through I'd give it all to understand this feeling for you I can't pretend I can't depend, I just can't press rewind...

but I'll figure out why I act like a child just to feel for you it's not a choice I made but every moment seems like you're here with me today...my eyes will burn when I see your face can you prove me wrong?

can you tell me that it was all just a mistake?
it was just one night I thought..
I thought too much
and now I love the drunk you

I wander home and stay up late the brightest star keeps me awake with a painted picture of the night we spent and glass is breaking in my car just from wondering where you are when all the lights went out, it's just regret my motions ache and there's flooding in this room from all the heartbreak so when I'm wrong about these actions that had once took place my eyes will burn when I see your face these hands are cold and the warmth of your body doesn't help at all when I'm trying to sink into your broken heart I should've stayed away, I knew from the start that you would only think that I was a mistake can you prove me wrong? (no!)

can you tell me that it was all just a mistake?
just one night I thought

I thought too much

you drank the night away (the drunk you) a shot of whiskey mixed with all the words you say you drank the night away (the drunk you)
