I'm locked and loaded on that thing that pumps your blood melodramatic drama's never been so fun around the time we all got up and fled the scene if it weren't for me, you might still be alive but now tonight I'll keep a real close eye on you and overkill defeats the thrill of what was once enough to get us through a day there's no time or place to state your case illusion, come and set me free it's strange how all these words are not enough to accomplish anything but they still choke you up...

good morning, taking off tonight we're blasting off tonight, farewell I'm taking lives dressed up and shy by evening, taking off tonight we're blasting off tonight, so long I never meant to choke you up hallucinations set me free watch me fly!

below the city's so small in my own stratosphere I won't be coming back down when I don't need you here
