Nervously you lit your cigarette hey beautiful why did you start again you interrupt me with how are you doing well i love my life and the music that i'm grooving you pause and slowly hang your head i don't think i can do this again flat out it wasn't shiny and new what's a young boy gotta do for you?

you look really good my baby i ain't gonna lie but take one minute and shed your skin it'l be the best thing in your life your eyes look empty lost in the sadness faking a smile and it's worse than the madness i don't need you i'm a little bit stronger you say it's been a while it's gonna be a while longer i've never seen you like this before you, asking me for more there's no going back to yesterday who would want to anyway

your heart's stone cold and you can't feel nothing i wish what i got was enough to be lovin' your heart's stone cold won't let nobody in there not much changed and its all to familiar your heart's stone cold and it's making me sadder just to think true love really didn't even matter your heart's stone cold and nothing is gonna change.
