Well I'll tell you a story of whiskey and mystics and men And about the believers, and how the whole thing began First there were women and children obeying the moon Then daylight brought wisdom and fever and sickness too soon
You can try to remind me instead of the other you can You can help to insure that we all insecure our command
If you don't give a listen I won't try to tell your new hand This is it can't you see that we all have our end in the band

And if all of the teachers and preachers of wealth were arraigned
We could see quite a future for me in the literal sands
And if all of the people could claim to inspect such regret
Well we'd have no forgiveness forgetfulness faithful remorse
So I tell you I tell you I tell you we must send away
We must try to find a new answer instead of a way
