I'm making your wish come true,
So I wrote this song about you.
I want you to know the words better than I do.
I want you to sing along,
To every word to this song.
If I wrote them about anyone else
It would sound all wrong.

Every star is a wish,
And every song is a wish come true.
Your poem is in my heart,
Too hard to say thank you.
Let's split up the song you made,
Before we get this the best we can.
I knew that you would understand.

[Chorus:]

I'm making your wish come true,
So I wrote this song about you.
I want you to know the words better than I do.
I want you to sing along,
To every word to this song.
If I wrote them about anyone else
It would sound all wrong.

Every dream has its night,
And this night's dream is dedicated.
I've tried so many sounds,
To bring two words if you hate it.
Let's open a thousand doors,
And hear this song a skip before.
Could you ask for any more?

[Chorus:]

I'm making your wish come true,
So I wrote this song about you.
I want you to know the words better than I do.
I want you to sing along,
To every word to this song.
If I wrote them about anyone else
It would sound all wrong.

I'm beginning to,
Understand you.
If i could give the world or buy anything,
You still would want me to sing...

[Chorus:]

I'm making your wish come true,
So I wrote this song about you.
I want you to know the words better than I do.
I want you to sing along,
To every word to this song.
If I wrote them about anyone else
It would sound all wrong.
(they would sound all wrong)

I'm making your wish come true,
So I wrote this song about you.
I want you to know the words better than I do.
I want you to sing along,
To every word to this song.
