"Singin' Along"

Move your feet and get down to the beat
Whoa
Move your feet and get, get down
So we traded our pencils and books
For dance beats and hooks
But we'll never trade our eyes for dollar signs

Here's twenty bucks that screams
You're singing along,
You're singing along to my words
Here's twenty bucks that screams
You're singing along,
You're singing along to my words

I talked to this town and it told me
"Son, all I have are avenues and streets,
That will never ever make your life complete!"
So tonight, I'll take a ride with the windows down
And my eyes open wide.
I'll pass the street lights and the street signs
I'll count these white lines until the day we leave

Here's twenty bucks that screams
You're singing along,
You're singing along to my words
Here's twenty bucks that screams
You're singing along,
You're singing along to my words

Put your money where your words lie on your tongue
Take every last breath that's in these lungs
Put your money where your words lie on your tongue
