At the back of the room
She is calling
At the back of the room
She is waiting

I never thought that anything would come up in Don't waste your words on a story that wont fit
I never thought that I would see your face again
When I looked in your eyes I knew just where youve been

At the back of the room
She is calling
At the back of the room
She is waiting

Locked in a memory my life was torn apart
I have a weakness, buried at the start
But in the distace there's no consience, there's no heart
My normal life is an other world apart

But at the back of the room
She is calling
At the back of the room
She is waiting

Don't need anything
There's no loving it
No no

Don't need anything
If there's no loving it
No no

But at the back of the room
She is calling
At the back of the room
She is waiting

And at the back of the room
She is calling

At the back of the room
She is waiting
