

The Five O'clock Heroes

"Climb The Hill"

Visit "Climb The Hill" on MotoLyrics.com

I opened a door in me, like a cat with curiosity
Unwrapped the perfect present and saw a new history.
Panic politics don't get me down.
Bible thump posturing won't turn me 'round.
It seems the rules were made for some other time.
Too much money in the pipeline; too much fighting overseas.
Too much hatred in the heartland; too much talking over me.
Look around and listen; I don't exist without you in my life.
I'm having a good time by the way,
Sitting here wondering, how can I say,
Those pretty pictures don't paint the truth.
Very clever edits conceal the lie
If you want to hear the rules being made you've got to have
Your ear pressed to the ground.
Too many lost without a requiem; too many lost without a cause.
Too many win without a winner; too many want to go to war.
I'll climb the hill and look you down.
To me you're inside out and upside down
I'll climb the hill and look you down.
To me you're inside out and upside down...

Visit The Five O'clock Heroes page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.