My eyes are closed but yet they see
The beauty of your love here surrounding me
Though you're not here, you're not far away
And in my silence you can hear me say

I give my love to you all my body and soul
I give my mind to you with a love that'll never grow old
I give my love to you all my body and soul
I give my mind to you with a love that'll never grow old

You are my smiles the last tears
You are my days, my weeks, my years
You are the flowers beneath my window sill
You're everything beautiful, everything that's real

I give my love to you all my body and soul
I give my mind to you with a love that'll never grow old

One day my life it will be over, but I have no fears
Cause nothing lasts but the years
But I love you now with every breath
And I believe I'll love you more after death

I give my love to you all my body and soul
I give my mind to you with a love that'll never grow old

You are the winter, girl you are the spring
You are the bible, girl you are the ring
You are the lover you are the friend
You are the beginning, girl you are the end

I give my love to you all my body and soul
I give my mind to you with a love that'll never grow old
