Maybe your opinion is exactly what I needed
Yeah, maybe you were always right
Under the impression that I'm easily defeated
But I don't need you
So I wipe my tears, put em back on your face
Drop kick your pedestal, Get back in your place
The things you say to me are way out of line
And I know you'd like to help me, but you're wasting your time

I'm not broken, I don't need to be fixed
And your pity, your stares are making me sick
And if my life leaves a bad taste in your mouth
Just spit it out, spit it out

People like to think that they're pretty damn important
Yeah people like thinking they're right
People like to tell me that I need a new direction
But I like what I do with my life
And don't back down, if you know what you're doing is right
I told you not to push it, your footsteps lead to bullshit
And I don't need your advice
Feel it in your stomach and you feel it in your heart
Then you know what you're doing is right
I hope you never listen, and I hope you never get it
And I hope you never take their advice
And don't back down if you know what you're doing is
I told you not to push it, your footsteps lead to bullshit
And I don't need your advice.

I DON'T NEED YOU!
