Once more, time just a getaway to solve problems
But we could drive forever and you'll never be the one
She said but I have been waiting so long,, and you won't do any better than me I somehow found the strength to say, I have to take that chance you see

In a European summer when the tears feel down like rain
You can change the scenery, but I still feel the same Destiny had intersections on the road that finds our way
And I left her sitting there on the longest holiday

I woke and felt a little different, time for leaving Some say it's all about pheromones, you'll be back she screamed
She said but I have been waiting so long, and you wont do any better than me
I somehow found the strength to say, I have to take that chance you see
