Rushing in, in the early morning and you're wondering.
Got a minute for another cup of coffee before you run.
And the silver bird is gone,
and you wonder where you belong.

Get a smile from the pretty waitress as she passes by.
She's the kind of person that could make you forget to cry.
And the silver bird is gone,
and you wonder where you belong.

Tell me where do you go from here?
Where do you belong my friend?
Tell me where do you run from here?
You've been running too long, my friend.

Rushing in, in the early morning and you're wondering.
Got a minute for another cup of coffee before you run.
And the silver bird is gone,
and you wonder where you belong.

Tell me where do you go from here?
Where do you belong my friend?
Tell me where do you run from here?
You've been running too long, my friend.

Oh where do you go from here?
Where do you belong my friend?
Oh where do you run from here?
You've been running too long, my friend.
