One hundred thousand miles we've been together,
My one and only, you're all that I know,
Two-litre diesel engine, how I love you,
So tell me why this mornin', you just won't go.
You know I loved you, always oiled and cleaned you,
Your flame-job pantwork's job stolen every show,
So why this freezin'mornin', when I need you,
You done gave up on me , you just won't go.
I know I asked a lot from such a small van,
But you stuck with me through rain and sleet and snow,
So why this freezin'mornin', when I need you,
You done gave up on me, you just won't go.
