The Hours
"Back When You Were Good"

I told you everyone's the same but its no use its no use lay it all to blame at my door that wont work no more i've heard it all before and i, i see you now you have changed somehow and i, i wish i knew you back then

I know you better than you know yourself and its no use you can't buy a new life off a shelf it wont set you free you're not fooling me its so sad to see how you've changed your tune and let go you're like a vampire you're soaking with bodies' blood oh how i wish i knew you back when you were good back when you were someone
when you were good,
you used to be so loud you burned so bright your stars shined out so bright you had it all right in the palm of your hand and let it fall like a million grains of sand you wear away to a place where nobody knew just who you are and theres no one to answer to no one to question the person you have become and what have you done what have you done and you have gone to hide somehwere yah you have gone to hide somewhere
