So we've grown apart, you've got a different heart yet I recognize you just the same

He's just another number, a tally for the summer,
If only I could spare you the pain

You know it all comes back
One of these lucky days
Yes, it all comes back to you

You say your lips are sealed, but your actions, they reveal A different side to your gentle soul

I see a crying out, teary eyes of doubt,
no love felt, no control

What didn't I do that so bothered you
Was it something that I didn't say?
Well I'm standing here now, as you shift your brow You're thinking of turning away

You know it all comes back
One of these lucky days
Yes, it all comes back to you

We've got to face our troubles, or they might just double Adding to the feeling of doubt

Oh if we just might stand with a mirror and a light,
We can face them and figure them out

You know it all comes back
Yes, it all comes back to you
