Things can happen in an instant,
And things can go unnoticed,
And things can be blurted out without question

I know I have no reason to feel the way that I do I know I have no reason to feel the way I do, way I do feel about you
I told myself that I was through yeah
I told myself that I was through I told myself that I was through but am I really through with you

Me with my other you've found another these devils on my shoulder have torn me apart
Me with my other you've found another these devils on
my shoulder have torn me apart
Me with my other you've found another these devils on
my shoulder have torn me apart

Feeling cheated is ridiculous on my part but it's there for some reason it's there

I set myself up for destruction, I think I knew it from the start
I set myself up for destruction, I think I knew it from the
start
I set myself up for destruction, I think I knew it from the
I set myself up for destruction I think we knew it from the late nights long talks emotions I should have kept at bay things that I didn't have to say I told myself that I was through
