I was seven years old when I watched the world fall down
I can't remember but I like the way it sounds
I never realized that kids like me grow up in war
So I thought my life was hard until you told me yours and if the sky should fall and break you up while it hits
the ground
You wont ever let life go
Wont ever let you go,
Just follow the lights home

My father sings to me, tucks me in at night.
Your father died for you so you could stay alive and I'm so scared to say that we're the same in every way except one I was born in peace and you under the gun.
and if the sky should fall and break you up while it hits
the ground
You wont ever let life go
wont ever let you go,
Just follow the lights home

And a child of seven years should never have to see Their world come crashing down to wither at their feet.
And me and my self centered little world cannot comprehend the truth That I can't live through what you have and I could have been you.
And if the sky should fall and break you up while it hits
the ground
You won't ever let life go
Wont ever let you go,
just follow the lights home

And if the sky should fall and break you up while it hits
the ground
You wont ever let life go
wont ever let you go,
Just follow the lights home
