It's been three long months
I think I've had enough of waiting for you to come home It's been three long years full of blood and sweat and tears
I'm waiting for you to come home

Feel the weight of this situation, feel it in your chest

Show me who you are, who you really are
I've been trying oh so long to keep you here in my arms
Show me who you are, who you really are
I've been trying oh so long to keep you here in my heart

And I don't think that I can be the one who's waiting patiently
So when will you decide to choose the one who's been behind you all along.

Feel the weight of this situation, feel it in your chest

Show me who you are, who you really are
I've been trying oh so long to keep you here in my arms
Show me who you are, who you really are
I've been trying oh so long to keep you here in my heart

Baby you're lying, and I can see right through you.

Feel the weight of this situation, feel it in your chest

I've been trying oh so long to keep you here in my arms
Right here in my arms

Baby you're lying, baby you're lying
And I can see right through you
