

The Method To My Medium "Lessons In Breathing"

You arrived at my door unexpected today,
Caught off guard,
What did you do?
And you said you said it with your first line,
How you never want to see me, yeah you said...
"You're running from the worries that your eyes don't don't don't
You're running from the worries that your eyes don't show"

Revolution never came in a day she said this is a lesson in breathing
And I don't want to feel it,
No I don't want to feel it
Don't say you can't change it for me now
Don't say you can't change this now

You're calling all the shots and you want to go
But you're scared to be alone
You're scared to be alone

You're running from the worries that eyes don't show
You're running from the worries that eyes don't show
You're running from the worries that eyes don't show

Revolution never came in a day she said this is a lesson
in breathing
And I don't want to feel it,
No I don't want to feel it
Don't say you can't change it for me now
Don't say you can't change this now

(Now I fear it's too late we are watching ourselves fall into place)
Don't say you can't change this for me now
Don't say you
Don't say you can't change it
