Now you finally got your way
And you're comin' home today
But you never thought that you could be so lonely
And when the feelin's comin' down
You can hear the empty sound
Crashin' through your head
The silence so loud

But you know what you're after
You know what you're lookin' for

Now you're finally on your way
And you're comin' home to stay
Everything you knew before so far away

Now you never had a doubt
That it would all work out
But you never thought that it could take you so long
Now the seasons are in change
Everything is rearranged

All that you will sacrifice
Is the price that you will pay
But you know what you're after
And you see the road before you

Now you're finally on your way
And you're comin' home to stay
Everything you knew before so far away

Come out from the mirror
Step into the light
Everything that you've been searching for
Is there within your sight
Run into the future
And forget about the past
A memory will always be
But the moments never last

Now you've found what you were after
Now the road it lies before you

So you're finally on your way
And you're comin' home to stay
The life you left behind you is so far away
