You would break so easily So fragile that it frightens me A harsh sudden reality A painful possibility To see it's like the strangest dream to be it needs to still be seen As loud as any noise you've heard As quiet as a whispered word Try to answer questions forced Forced inside of me You were forced across the line You're not providing me You would break so easily I watched you break so easily What's it like to be right up against Not stay on this side of the fence A line so fine it can't be traced A life so suddenly erased Two came through just like a train A flash and nothing's been the same try to answer questions forced Forced inside of me You took the answers when you broke So easily you're gone Once the same until You broke so easily Tell me now
