i've been telling everybody just how much that you control me feelings, most times, can't be described in melody but i'll try even when i see you sometimes it might seem that i forget but dont worry you're in every word i sing i'm so perfectly done with all the hooks that i've been writing and all the lyrics, worth reciting, cause they're all about you you know, it's hard to leave you out of a song there's always so many things to say the list goes on and on and on and on
