We live in an unsafe world
Waiting the martyr's knock
Praying a different God
And we're afraid too much
Of walking down the streets
Of getting on the bus on the bus
Everyday everyday

But we take your cruise everyday
We see our children die
And our houses go up in flames
And tell us where should we live?
Beyond the border of time?
Under a cruises'rain?

An old wall came down years ago
A new one is growing up
We're animals to be railed
This is the truth that we know
This is the start of the end
And we celebrate it with a cruise
