"Torn Between Two"

Day and night I see you passing by my window
Walls have ears, surveillance cameras watch our lives

Is it just too much
Is it just too much
To have one minute with you
It is just my luck
It is just my luck
That I am torn between the two

Same old tale, the walls that crumble between lovers
Lose control, forever live my life a lie

Is it just too much
Is it just too much
To have one minute with you
It is just my luck
It is just my luck
That I am torn between the two

We both know we can't go hiding in the shadows
Walls have ears, surveillance cameras watch our lives
