

The Morning Of "Cobwebs And Cable"

Visit "Cobwebs And Cable" on MotoLyrics.com

When it rains, I can hear the sound of your voice as it's calling out

Delicate as it hits the ground

Far away but I need you now

And we could be anything

Well, this could be bigger than we know

But these cobwebs turn to cables

As you watch me sink just like a stone

And finally I'm letting go

To the stone, wear the silver ring

Left engraved til the death of me

And I swear it was honesty

But we lie, so just lie for me

And we could be anything

Well, this could be bigger than we know

But these cobwebs turn to cables

As you watch me sink just like a stone

And finally I'm letting go

And finally I'm letting go

When it rains, I hear the sound

And we could be anything

Well, this could be bigger than we know

But these cobwebs turn to cables

As you watch me sink just like a stone

And we could be anything

Well, this could be bigger than we know

But these cobwebs turn to cables

As you watch me think of letting go

Visit The Morning Of page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.