There was a time where I fought my mind 'cause the world left me behind
and I was running, I was running away.
But my days turned into nights where we hide behind in lights,
and we were running, we were running away.
I turned these leaves and found new dreams,
you're everything, everything to me.

You were spinning around and felt my hand in the
dark,
with my feet off the ground I'm seeing the sparks.
I've waited on a second chance (waited on a second chance).
And if you're feeling me now then let me know from the start
we don't have to come down 'til the world falls apart
I've waited on a second chance, I've waited.

Now there's a part of me that stays on the coast when I must leave
(if I am running, if I am running away)
You're the one I hope you know when I'm gone it starts
to show
(when I am running, when I am running away)
I turned these leaves and found new dreams,
you're everything, everything to me.

You were spinning around and felt my hand in the
dark,
with my feet off the ground I'm seeing the sparks.
I've waited on a second chance (waited on a second chance).
And if you're feeling me now then let me know from the
start
we don't have to come down 'til the world falls apart
I've waited on a second chance, I've waited.

You were spinning around and felt my hand in the
dark,
with my feet off the ground I'm seeing the sparks.

I've waited on a second chance (waited on a second chance).
You were spinning around and felt my hand in the dark,
with my feet off the ground I'm seeing the sparks.
I've waited on a second chance (waited on a second chance).
And if you're feeling me now then let me know from the start
we don't have to come down 'til the world falls apart
I've waited on a second chance, I've waited on a second chance.
