Living for another day Living for another day For another day For another day

I could wait a little while Just a little while Until you make up your mind Just a little while I want you to want me with you, I don't wanna beg you to stay

It's the same way every time Just a little while You don't know I let it slide And I tell you I don't mind And I know that you don't have to But you know I'm gonna ask you to stay Even for another day

Living for another day Living for another day For another day For another day

If I wait a little while Just a little while Will you make up your mind I'll wait a little while I want you to want me with you, I don't wanna beg you to stay If it's just for another day

Living for another day Living for another day For another day For another day

Don't tell me what you gotta do, come on tell me what you wanna do (x12)
