

The Notaries "Every Game"

Visit "Every Game" on MotoLyrics.com

Of every game I played in life,
Why would this one be any different?
Any different...

It's still the same as before,
You wanted friendship, I wanted more.
For three years I waited for nothing at all,
At all.

Every game I played in life,
I was always one space behind,
And that makes the difference,
It'll never be different.

Of all the games I've played in life,
Why'd your smile have to be so bright?
I don't think I'll be alright,
When nothing will ever be different.

You wanted friendship, I wanted more.
We've got to end this, close the door,
You wanted friendship, I wanted more.
We've got to end this, close the door,
Or it'll stay the same as before.

Every game I played in life,
I was always one space behind.
Of all the games I've played in life,
Why'd your smile have to be so bright?
I don't think I'll be alright.
Not this time.

Visit The Notaries page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.