I could talk to you,
A thousand times,
A thousand ways,
In different lives.
I would be so blessed,
To walk with you,
Down the street,
Or a couple of feet.
I would be, so blessed.

An addiction I'll find to you,
If you keep doing those things you do.
Your name I'll sing,
Your phone will always ring,
And I'll enter your dreams,
And you'll overdose on me as I have on you,
And maybe I'll become your addiction,
And maybe I'll become your addiction, too.

It's not just a feeling,
That's reeling, me to you.
It's attraction,
There's no subtraction, of me and you.
It's not just temptation,
It's an infatuation, with you.
I just can't help falling,
So hard I'm falling, for you.

An addiction I'll find to you,
If you keep doing those things you do.
Your name I'll sing,
Your phone will always ring,
And I'll enter your dreams,
And you'll overdose on me as I have on you,
And maybe I'll become your addiction,
And maybe I'll become your addiction, too.

I'm glad I can't forget you face,
If I did, I'd feel out of place.
A town away, a state away,
No matter how far, you are,
In my heart you'll always stay.

An addiction I'll find to you,
If you keep doing those things you do.
Your name I'll sing,
Your phone will always ring,
And I'll enter your dreams,
And you'll overdose on me as I have on you,
And maybe, just maybe, I'll become your addiction,
too.

If stars could be, as bright as you,
I'd never see, or know what to do.
I would be a pilot, and fly away distress,
If I could be a pirate, and you could be a princess.
When the sun is engulfed in rain, and the clouds fill the sky,
I'll scream out your name, and all doubts will die.

An addiction I'll find to you,
If you keep doing those things you do.
Your name I'll always sing out loud,
Sing right now.
I'll enter your dreams,
You'll overdose on me as I have on you,
And maybe, just maybe, I'll become your addiction,
Your addiction, too.
