(Love is a song we're singing it)

The song's in my head again
Of things that I never said
In my heart you'll hear the words
It's heard in the things we do
It's all in the things we do
(Love is a song we're singing it)
No need to write the notes
We just improvise and flow
Where, tomorrow only knows
Just watching the garden grow
This is the melody we know

And your silence sings I can hear it

Everyday that comes; every year gone by
Writes the ballad of you and I
Every sound I hear, ringing out so clear
Writes the ballad of you and I
Of you and I
(Love is a song we're singing it)

I used to believe in love
But now I believe us
Cause we've got no need to hide
We're made out of flesh and bone
But this house is made of stone

And your silence sings I can hear it

Everyday that comes; every year gone by
Writes the ballad of you and I
Every sound I hear, ringing out so clear
Writes the ballad of you and I
Of you and I
(Love is a song we're singing it)

No need to crawl, no need to bend
Don't have to be a part of some plan
Don't have to ask for you to give

Don't have to die for us to live

Everyday that comes; every year gone by
Writes the ballad of you and I
Every sound I hear, ringing out so clear
Writes the ballad of you and I
Everyday that comes; every year gone by
Writes the ballad of you and I
Every sound I hear, ringing out so clear
Writes the ballad of you and I
Of you and I [x4]
(Love is a song we're singing it)
