(FIDDLE INTRO)

Have you ever felt yourself in a place a little strange

Where nothin' seemed the way it should be

And every time you'd set your sight and take an aim

Things would change, move out of range

Have you stood in the sunshine and seen darkness everywhere

Have you looked for a seashell on a street

Has it made much difference that you've never had to share

You've just given,

Given it all to the wind

You've just given,

Given it all to the wind

(FIDDLE SOLO)

When you finally find yourself in the middle of a dream

And the vision slowly slips away

It's hard to hold yourself in the middle of a stream

You just give in,

Giving it all to the wind

You just give in,

Giving it all to the wind

(FIDDLE SOLO)
