All the strangers that we've seen tonight Does it seem absurd? You can never say you've seen the light You're something special A prophet to let for for world You're some old girl You're some old girl Some old girl You can maybe do it to yourself Does it seem absurd? You can never say you've seen the light You're something special A prophet to let for the world Some old girl You can stick around here But you never seem to let it all go

All the strangers that we've seen tonight Did it seem absurd? You can never say you've seen the light You're something special A prophet to let for for world You're some old girl You're some old girl Some old girl
