

The Pains Of Being Pure At Heart "The Body"

Visit "The Body" on MotoLyrics.com

Come on now stop staring at the ceiling
Your last daydream is slowly unreeling Won't you come out tonight, like I know you want to 'cuz the city's alive and even though it haunts you, I want you

To tell me again what the body's for
'cuz I can't feel it anymore
I want to hurt like it did before
We shouldn't sin

Tell me again what the body's for

'cuz I can't feel it anymore
I lost mine and I need yours,
It's only skin, we could swim

You try so hard to keep it together, and you look so hard in fishnets and leather
But I know who you are, you are just a lost saint
And if we go too far, there'll be heaven to pay and what a priceâ€¦

I can't feel it anymore, tell me again what the body's for
I can't feel it anymore, tell me again it's only skin, we should swim

Visit The Pains Of Being Pure At Heart page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.