When you're feeling all alone
Just pick up the telephone Wherever you are, you are home
It's a big world, it's a small world

Jokes for laughing, tears to cry
Babies born and old folks die
Where on earth don't that apply
It's a big world, it's a small world

It's a big world, it's a small world
It's a weird, wild, wide-open, wonderful world
And we'll always think we're different and we'll always be the same
'Cause we're going one direction in a million different ways

Every single lonely heart Thinks they're the only one in the dark But somewhere someone's wishing on the same star
It's a big world, it's a small world

It's a big world, it's a small world
It's a weird, wild, wide-open, wonderful world
And we'll always think we're different and we'll always
be the same
'Cause we're going one direction in a million different
ways

No matter where you're standing
We all want the same thing Peace and love and understanding
It's a big world, it's a small world

It's a big world, it's a small world
It's a weird, wild, wide-open, wonderful world
And we'll always think we're different and we'll always
be the same
'Cause we're going one direction in a million different
ways

And we'll always think we're different and we'll always

be the same
'Cause we're going one direction in a million different ways
