Married for 50 years Made it through a million tears
He still calls her angel
Had 2 kids then 2 more
And like he always did before
He still calls her angel

All the worries of the world would disappear
When he whispered that sweet word in her ear

She'd get mad for things he'd done
Call him every name under the sun
He still calls her angel

All the worries of the world would disappear
When he whispered that sweet word in her ear

They're getting on who knows when They're time will come but until then
He still calls her angel
She'll always be his angel
