They both feel it when they kiss
And it breaks his heart the way it's breaking his Another night pretending nothing's wrong
But they both know that she's already gone

Chorus

He's holding onto yesterday but he knows she can't live
this way
And there's certain things a man just can't control
Like the distance in her eyes, like the truth he can't deny
And the heartache that's about to take it's toll Anyone who's ever been there and survived has come to know the moving on is in the letting go

Maybe she just needs time to herself
Maybe she's in love with someone else There's some answers he don't wanna know Some places that a man don't wanna go

He's holding onto yesterday but he knows she can't live
this way
And there's certain things a man just can't control
Like the distance in her eyes, like the truth he can't
And the heartache that's about to take it's toll
to know the moving on is in the letting go
