Well I'm searching for somethin'
That I can't reach
So I whisper your name
In my sleep
N' time it isn't giving me
The space that I need
But you know at this pace
I don't think
I can Pull into the lead
Forgiving myself is too simple too hard
There's got to be another way
To stop this car
But you know
Somehow we get there
Through the blind night
We got the white lines flashing past the tip of our headlights
Somehow we get there
From whatever we are
Somehow we get there
No matter how far
'Cause I can't
Carry this around anymore
It's getting heavier with age

It is the boulder in my stomach
It's the avalanche in my veins
So let's leave it behind
I want to bury it beside the road
I will sit there until it comes out of me
I'll be freezing in the summer desert cold
But you know
Somehow we get there
Through the blind night
We got the white lines flashing past the tips of our
head lights
Somehow we get there
From wherever we are
Somehow we get there
No matter how far
So hold my head

While I rock
Myself back to sleep
And I tell you that I am not easy
And you tell me that I am
Sweet
