Blinded by this false circle of influence
These programmed thoughts are not real
Losing becomes a fear, it draws near
We push away with denial
Your constant lies, your constant excuses
Why do we try?
Effort appears useless
So I'm searching for something real
That I can hold onto
Everybody's got a scam these days
You can only do one thing one way
In the dark we hide
We still expect to see a light
As we're held back by these chains
We gotta face the facts
We gotta confront ourselves
Break all the walls, crack all the shells
And I refuse to limit myself anymore
Your opinion is just that
It's not mine, but yours
We have yet to live
We have yet to think for ourselves
Why don't you break all the walls?
Why don't you crack all the shells?
