We looked outside the other day.
At thirty-thousand feet,
We swayed from our three seats 'cause soon we'll be buzzing into the fire.
I could feel us flying with every single note.
The memories of a precious time.
To be somewhere, in a distant atmosphere,
But i just can't control the tears. one more time.
We walked out onto your front lawn.
Set three legs aside.
Looked into the glass and caught the light shining into my eyes.
I could feel me flying so high above the sky.
One more time we'll meet i know we will.
We'll meet someday somewhere up high, in the hills.
Time to exit now.
You didn't know me and i didn't know you well.
