Right here before me, this fallen angle from my past
She's sitting back and slipping slowley
On a drink that always lasts and lasts
I've been dreaming , thinking about the days gone by I've only had my time for living and the days I tried to fly, away
I need your loving tonight
You know you always make me feel alright now
I need your loving tonight , night child
These pools of darkness, your eyes they tell no lies
What is this madness, don't just sit there and cry
Don't cry
I need your loving tonight
You know you always make me feel alright
I need your loving tonight, night child
We've got to live with all the things we have done
There's no use in cryin cause what's done is done
I need your loving tonight
You know you always make me feel alright now
I need your loving tonight, night child.
