I used to be so lonely, I used to be so blue
There was a time I thought I'd never see love shining through
I could not find a spark of hope, there was darkness in the air
Then I found someone, now the clouds are gone and I see love everywhere

And I said, oh me, oh my, mercy, mercy
Now love is everywhere
I said, ooh, wee, then I sighed
Land, oh gosh and love is everywhere

There was a woman that I heard of, they say every night she cried
About a love that long ago had withered up and died Then one night she was observed by the full light of the moon
With a swing of the hips and a song on her lips and a man up in her room

She said oh me, oh my, mercy, mercy
Now love is everywhere
She said, ooh, wee, then she sighed
Land, oh gosh and oh, love is everywhere

There was a man who lived next to me and I swear that his heart was hard There was no sunshine on his back porch, no flowers in his yard
He claimed that he'd looked high and low but love could not be found
But it didn't take too much, just a womans touch to turn his world around

And he said, oh me, oh my, mercy, mercy
Now love is everywhere
Yeah, he said, ooh, wee, then he sighed
Land, oh gosh and hey, love is everywhere

I said, oh me, oh my, mercy, mercy
Now love is everywhere

And I said, ooh, wee, and I sighed
Land, oh gosh and love is everywhere

And I said, oh me, oh my, mercy, mercy
Now love is everywhere
And I said, ooh, wee, and I sighed
Land, oh gosh and love is everywhere
