I'll forget everything that I've heard,
Discard every wise word I've heard,
Sort sound plans from big dreams,
And then I'll live for my own concern.

Cause sometimes I think things would be so much easier.
Or in the least they would make so much more sense.
If I hadn't all these worriers and clouded words
Cornering me everywhere I went.

I can go with the flow and live uncomfortable.
I can go with the flow and live uncomfortable.

It seems I've gotta find my own direction
And once again my plans are getting shitted on.
Someone stop the bus, land the plane I'm getting out.
There's red lights at the end of this tunnel.

Forgetting everything I've had in mind
Helps me to let in so easily.
Like there's not a predetermined answer to repeat.
These are the first words uttered from my mouth.

I can go with the flow and live uncomfortable.
I can go with the flow and live uncomfortable.
