All alone, nothing to do
It's lonely here without you
The candle light is burning low
A love song's on the radio
And memories are all I have to show

Photographs, tickets for two
Promises that all fell through
Now every thing's in black and white
The color's faded with the night
The stars we used to wish upon
Have somehow lost their light

Where is the feeling we used to know?
Where is the music that played?
Oh, what happened to the love
That used to show?
Where did the feeling go?

A cigarette, a glass of wine
A paperback to pass the time
And as I lie awake tonight
I'll leave the porch light burning bright
And miss your loving arms
That used to hold me tight

Where is the feeling we used to know?
Where is the music that played?
Oh, what happened to the love
That used to show?
But where did the feeling go?

Where is the feeling we used to know?
Where is the music that played?
Oh, what happened to the love
That used to show?
But where did the feeling go?

Oh, what happened to the love
That used to show?
Where did the feeling go?
