

The Spaceimps "This Is Now"

Visit "This Is Now" on MotoLyrics.com

What's wrong with the world today?
It seems that everyone's worried about things we can't control and,
All the reasons why were helpless,
Don't you wish we had the answers to all the questions
we ignore?
Like what will come of us?
If we gain dependency,

From all the things we've come to want,
I hope there's something left to remind me,
Of everything that we had,

There's no time for second chances,
This was over before we began,
And I hate these fake romances,
Guess it's something we can't understand

They say it's better to have loved than never love at all,
I think I would have been better off alone,
The world could burn and I would love if I could let you go,
This is what you get for giving up of me,

And when there nothing left to say,
I hope there's something left to remind me,
Of everything that we had,

There's no time for second chances,
This was over before we began,
And I hate these fake romances,
Guess it's something we can't understand

Visit The Spaceimps page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.