You have to brace yourself for this lesson in psychology
It happens so much I end up writing my own philosophies
One more time I'm telling you it's a front She could try to rejoice in the sound of her voice without acting so blunt

One breath later I'm working as your waiter and there's nothing you can tell me to change the way that I feel now nooowooah

These three words I'll change the world for you and me In these four walls I'm planning what was meant to be With these three words forget the world it's history

1234 before I know it you're back for more 5678 you love to do the things I hate
One last time I'm telling you it's a front
These three words biggest understatement
