(Kent Westberry - Hal Harbour)

Here we are for one night only and just to keep from being lonely

We came here with one thing on our minds
Just by chance tonight I met you and tomorrow I'll forget you
But for now we'll search for love we never find.

We're just two strangers passing in the night
And it's not ours to question wrong or right
Cause we'll just have a mem'ry come the morning light
Of two strangers passing in the night.

Let's not think about tomorrow just tonight and try to borrow

A little bit of happiness or two Hold me close hear my heart beating it's your sweet love I am needing
And time is riding out from me and you.

We're just two strangers passing in the night
And it's not ours to question wrong or right
Cause we'll just have a mem'ry come the morning light
Of two strangers passing in the night.

Of two strangers passing in the night...
