(Jerry House)

Mr. Walker could I please talk to your wife
It's unusual and I guess I don't have the right
But she left me without warning or farewell of any kind
And you know Mr. Walker you and yours used to be me and mine.

I have tasted the sweetest honey
And the sweetest grapes on her vine
But she wasted enough of my money
You and yours used to be me and mine.

Well, hello Mrs. Walker, guess you hoped I never call
But I had to ask you how you feel now that you got it all
Is his crystal silver lovin' better than my homemade kind
I hope it is Mrs. Walker you and yours used to be me
and mine

I have tasted the sweetest honey
And the sweetest grapes on your vine
But you wasted enough of my money
You and yours used to be me and mine.

I have tasted the sweetest honey
And the sweetest grapes on your vine
But you wasted enough of my money
You and yours used to be me and mine...
