(Harold Montgomery)

She gives me tender loving care.

She runs her fingers through my hair
And she tell me I'm the greatest one of all
She takes my hand and holds me close
And tells me she loves me the most
She makes the sun shine everywhere
With her tender loving care.

With a smile she starts my day
And makes it perfect every way
And my every wish becomes her one command
She knows I'm weak but never tells
She helps me through my private hells
When I need she's always there
With her tender loving care.

At night she puts on her silk pijamas
In her negligee at the times not much at all
She snuggles close to me and tells me that she loves me
We've got a love so warm and rare
With our tender loving care
She makes the sun shine everywhere
With her tender loving care...
