(Carl Knight - Clazton Ford - Howard White)

Watch the rain fall on the fields and the valleys
Hear the thunder roar across the sky
See the sun ray shine through a wall without windows
We hold hands and smile at what money can't buy.

We have a mansion seen only by me and you
Our days without sunshine are few
We've always loved even though it'd make us cry
'Cause we hold hands and smile at what money can't buy.

--- Instrumental ---

Our children are playing no shoes on their feet
And patch after patch upon their knees
Yet we hear only laughter and people ask why
We hold hands and smile at what money can't buy.

We have mansions seen only by me and you
Our days without sunshine are few
We've always loved even though it'd make us cry
'Cause we hold hands and smile at what money can't buy.

'Cause we hold hands and smile at what money can't buy...
